

Leigh Stegeman BEng RPEQ 10639
Senior Civil and Structural Engineer

A proven industry leader in the area of civil and structural engineering, Leigh is well known and highly respected by peers and clients. He has demonstrated success in providing effective solutions for the construction sector over his years in the industry, working across a wide range and scale of sectors and projects.

Background & Experience

Leigh, with 18 years' experience in structural and civil engineering, has worked on prestigious commercial projects in Cyprus and England, as well as a wide variety of residential, commercial, and industrial projects, including waste industry projects in Australia. His expertise includes pre/post-tensioned concrete, reinforced concrete, structural steel, concrete tilt panel, masonry, high-rise, and low set structures.

Leigh's civil engineering experience has developed through larger structural developments. Civil engineering components include bulk earthworks, roadworks, stormwater drainage, implementation of bio basin design and detention basin design, erosion and sediment control, technical specifications, tendering, and contract administration.

Through a close working relationship with developers, architects, building contractors, and project managers, Leigh has developed excellent communication and technical structural and civil engineering skills. Enabling him to manage a project team in both structural and civil engineering, while allowing him to undertake project coordination, delivery, site supervision, contract administration, detailed design, negotiate with Councils, State Government Authorities and other stakeholders to deliver, sound, cost-effective solutions, with high-quality project outcomes on time and within budget.
